ADVERTISEMENTS AND PROPORTION

Those who take papers or magazines like to have something for their money besides announcements of free gifts. They do not like to part with good money for news or literature and find that they have neither, as is often the case. Dooley had it right when he declared in the American Magazine: I don't abject, mind ye, to their (the advertisers) makin' a fair profit out iv their business iv idjacatin' people where to get th' best breakfast food or th' most sparklin' hair dye or what kind iv revolver to shoot thimsilves with. That's all right. But what I object to is whin I pay I0 or 15 cents f'r a magazine expectin' to spind me avenin' improvin' me mind with th' latest thoughts in advertisin' to find more thin a quarther iv th' whole book devoted to lithrachoor. It ain't fair. It's kind iv a confidence game they play on their readers. I don't want thim to be philanthropists, mind ye. They've got to make a livin'. But there ought to be some place iv stoppin' half way.

They we got to make a stoppin' half way.

This question of proportion is one which it always pays the reader to bear in mind when they are considering what they are getting for their money. Too much advertising is no help to advertiser or satisfaction to the reader. The policy of The Bulletin is to keep the proportion of reading matter so that both the readers and the advertisers will be satisfied.

The Bulletin averages 500 pieces of information every day. This is shown in the following summary of the matter printed in the past six days:

THE NORWICH M'KINLEY BANQUET

Reports Reaching the National Capital Have Created Considerable Feeling

CONNECTICUT HAS BEEN MISREPRESENTED

No Foundation for Statement that Réference was Made in Any Way to the Senatorial or Any Other Political Contest in this State in Mr. Cole's Speech-Reflection on All Concerned.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The published reports regarding the McKinley banched at Norwich, which have just reached Washington, came like a bombasell to those whose names are mentioned in this connection, and have created considerable feeling at the capital. All unite in saying that they regret exceedingly to have a matter of this kind come out, as it tends to make members of congress from other states decline to come to Connecticut to speak at public hanquets, and even at best it is hard to get any prominent man to take the time for such purposes.

I tened to. There certainly was no indication at the banquet of any such decling as described in the article in cuestion. We were all together, friends of Governor McLean and friends of Senator Bulkeley, and there was not a whisper of any objection to my remarks. Why, on the contrary, when I got through the guests not only applauded but stood on their feet and yelled. It was one of the greatest reception in the banquet of any such decling as described in the article in cuestion. We were all together, friends of Governor McLean and friends of Senator Bulkeley, and there was not a whisper of any objection to my remarks. Why, on the contrary, when I got through the guests not only applauded but stood on their feet and yelled. It was one of the greatest decline to come to Connecticut to speak at public hanquets, and even at best it is hard to get any prominent man to take the time for such purposes.

The Connecticut members, who se-ured Representative Cole for the banquet are especially evend at the turn of affairs, as they know Mr. Cole is entirely blameless in the matter, and they feel that Connecticut has been misrepresented in its feelings toward any speaker that may come to the state.

Ridiculous Insinuation.

Mr. Cole, when shown the despatch this morning, read it carefully, and then in a most earnest and sincere gnanner, spoke as follows: "You can manner, spoke as follows: "You can say for me, and make it as emphatic as possible, that there is not one word of truth in the article in question, nor is there any foundation in fact for the statement that I took occasion to refer in any shape or manner to the senatorial or any other political contest in Connecticut, in my speech at Norwich. The insimuation that I had been suggested to me that I say something that might assist Senator Bulkeley in his canvass for re-election, is ridiculous. Not only that, but such an insinuation is unfair to Senator Bulkeley, to Mr. Higgins, to Major Tilson. shuation is unfair to Senator Bulkeley, to Mr. Higgins to Major Tilson and to myself, and I resent it. I did not refer to the senatorial campaign, nor, in fact, to the senate at all, except to say that it was a st all body entirely surrounded by em oyes.

I do not remember that a spoke of the question of length of service of any members of congress, nor the polley of continuing good men in office.
But if I did it would be a most natmal taing for me to do, for I have been preaching that doctrine in Ohio and elsewhere for the last six years. I have often referred to the advantage that New England has in congress by reason of the fact that New England is in the habit of continuing its members of congress year after year, while we of Ohio change often, and the result at present is shown by the fact that we have lost all of our chairmanabiss in the house from Ohio, while New England continues in power and New England continues in power and

'In my speech, I referred to Mr. Higgins and to Major Tilson in the highest terms because they are my pergonal friends and because I know they are doing their duty here in Washington. I was glad to do that, for I esteem them highly, and they invited me to come to Norwich and make the speech. Both of them urged me to come, and while at first I felt obliged to decline, they kept asking me on so many occasions that finally I consented because they could get no one There was no suggestion from Ma-r Tilson, from Mr. Higgins, nor from by one else as to what I should say, and such a statement is a reflection on all of us. If, however, my remarks are considered by the friends of Gov-

ANOTHER DISASTER AVERTED BY MEANS OF WIRELESS

Captain and Crew of 46 Men Taken from Steamer Kentucky, Sunk Off Cape Hatteras-"S. O. S." Signal Quickly Answered.

New York, Feb. 4.—Thanks again to the wireless and the international distress signal, "S. O. S.," Captain Moore and his crew of forty-six men are safe on board the Mallory liner Alamo, bound for Key West, tonight, while their vessel, the Kentucky, has sunk off Cape Hatteras. It is another case of a disaster averted by wireless and told to the world by the same medium. The Kentucky, a wooden vessel of 996 gross tonnage and 203 feet long, was bound from New York to the Pacific to carry passengers between Tacoma and Alaskan ports for the Alaska Pacific Steamship company.

First news of the Kentucky's plight was received at the United Wireless The Proper Thing to Do.

"Only the other evening I met Senator Brandegee at the White house reception, and, in speaking of the banquet at Norwich, he remarked that he had noticed in the printed reports of my speech that I had taken care not to touch upon the senatorial question in the state at all, and he said he was glad of it and that it was the proper thing to do. I think I know how to observe the proprieties on an occasion of this kind, as I have been making speeches since I was fifteen years old, and I certainly had no intention of aiding or injuring any man in his political ambitions.

March T when a motion to set aside the verdict on the ground of being excessive will be argued. The assess-ment of cost and the fees of the coun-sel will also be determined. It is estimated that the costs will bring the foil against the United Hatters of North America to fully a quarter of a million dollars.

What the Verdict Means. Asked regarding the moral signifi-cance of the verdict in this case, which is the most important of its kind ever tried in this country, Attorney Daven-port, senior counsel for the plaintiffs,

said:
"First, it means that individual members of labor unions are bound by the actions of their officers and they cannot allow them to do as they please. Secondly, it means that the Sherman anti-trust law protects manufacturers and merchants from boyoffacturers and merchants from boy cott attacks. In substance it is a new declaration of independence."

Trial Ends Abruptly.

The trial ended abruptly. After the trial ended abruptly. After the storing of poultry in its natural state is prohibited it will open up an industry of cambing it, and it is far more wholesome, in our opinion, when frozen than canned.

"Were it not possible to preserve gggs by cold storage, we would have periods of scarcity when prices would seel at $2 a dozen."

TEEL VICE PRESIDENT SUIT FOR DIVO

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 4.—The mystery of the murder of the three women. Mrs. Amada Gribble, her daughter. Mrs. Ohlander, and Mrs. Maggie Hunter, on Dec. 10 last, was cleared up today by the confession of Bingham Bryan, a negro, arrested last month and held on suspicion. Bryan said he entered the house bent on robbery and carrying a hammer as a weapon. Mrs. Gribble caught him in the kitchen. He said he struck her several times with the hammer before she died. Then the datchter ran in and after striking her daughter ran in and after striking her down with his fist he beat her with the hammer, but she did not die at that time
